

MRS. WELCH ~ NOVEMBER 2015

In November...

Students will be able to check out library books from Mrs. Welch's classroom. They will come home in lime green bags (marked) and students can keep them one to two weeks. When done, they can return the book at school and choose another one!

Hay Maze at Gallagher Farm!

We will also begin our Star of the Week activities. Each student will get to be our class "Star of the Week" throughout the school year. This is an opportunity for the student to share show/tell items, fill out a poster, have a few guest readers come in and be our "star". I will contact families the week before they are the star to make sure they have everything they need and to schedule guest readers.

Information about Library and Star of the Week will be shared at Conferences. ~ Mrs. Welch

CONSCIOUS DISCIPLINE

Conscious Discipline uses Consequences. There is a positive/negative consequence for all choices that we make. For example, I remind the class often "If you are safe you can sit with your friends at the rug or cafeteria table. But if you are not being safe or making unsafe choices then you cannot sit with friends" This also goes for recess time, "If you play safely then friends will want to join you if you are not safe then friends might not want to play." Using consequences for safety is a big part of our day both positive/negative. If For more info: www.consciousdiscipline.com
